

The new website is under maintenance now and this is our old website. Till the maintenance activity is over, this website will continue. We sincerely regret inconvenience.

Dear Colleagues,

Our new website is under development. There has been some significant progress. The basic designing work has been contracted to an agency. However, due to lack of manpower support at our end, it is taking much more time than anticipated before. Meanwhile, we have just selected a Technical Assistant on contractual basis exclusively for website. The incumbent is likely to join by the next week and we expect the job to pick up pace.

On a different issue, we regularly receive request for content upload from different academic units and from different email IDs of faculty members. Sometimes, these are creating confusions. As the website is our official platform, I request all academic heads to send such requests only from the official mail ID of the HOD/Director in the iiests.ac.in domain. I do not have the official mail IDs of Heads of Green Energy and Materials Science. If these IDs have not been created, please make sure these are done immediately by requesting to landesk@iiests.ac.in and send us those IDs.

Thanks,

Pratik Dutta
